The Red Raiders dominance over rival Quincy continued with two shutouts over the Presidents. Many of the members qualified for the State meet, some in numerous events. A great end to a great season was held at the Quincy Recreational Dept. where pizza was served and awards given.

front row: Kurt Nason, Will Setow, Bobby Wong, Simon Gee.

Senior Captains: Norman Yuen and Raymond Chan with Coach Sean Nugent.

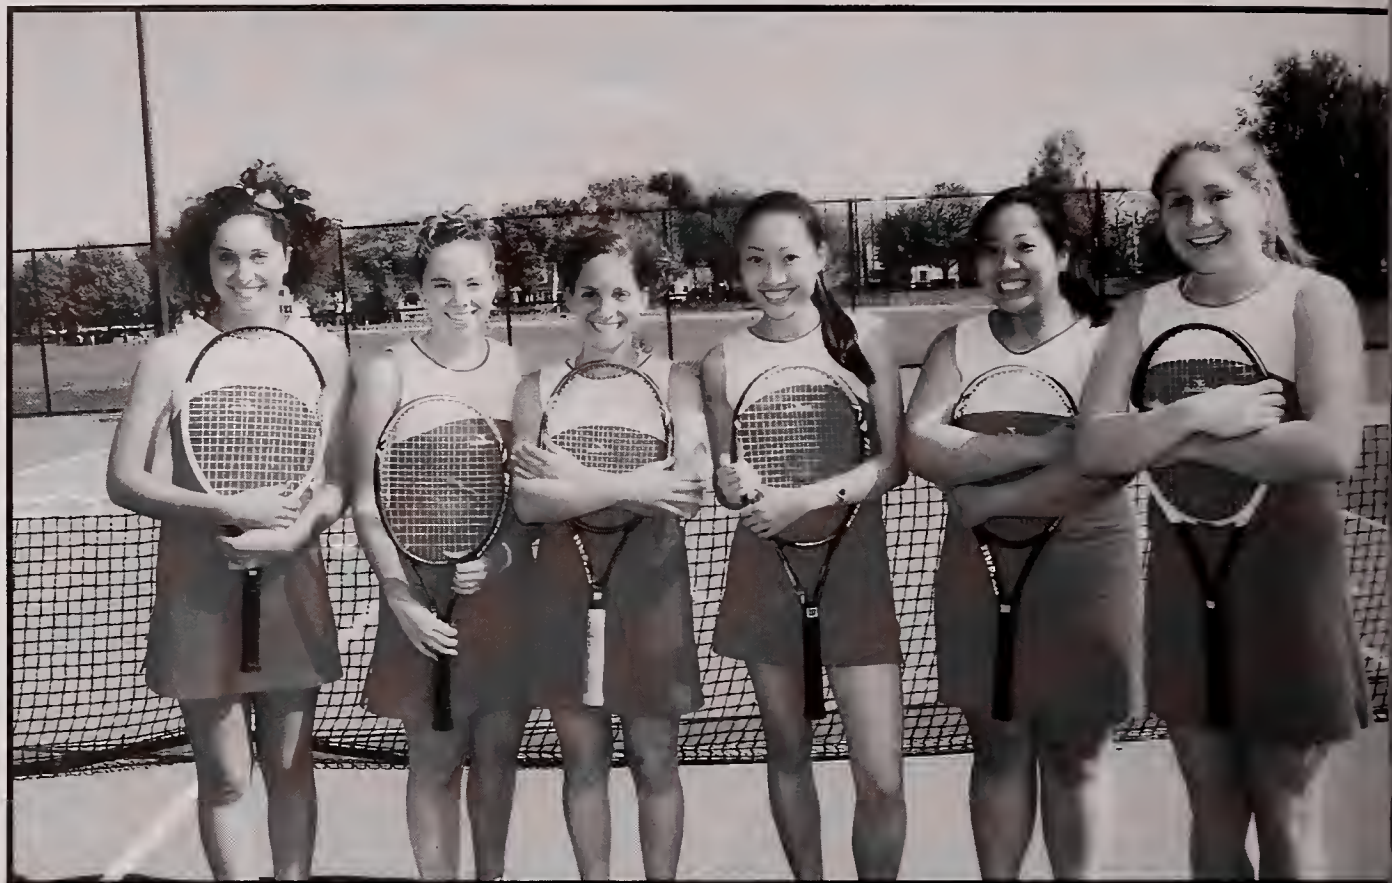

This year's boys' varsity volleyball team had a strong season, marked by spectacular wins and bitterly close matches. The team was led by a mature and talented group of seniors; outside hitters Norman Yuen and Raymond Chan, and middle hitters, David Dao and Richard Lee. Norman and Raymond served as team captains, provided key leadership on and off the court and generated a great deal of offense through the season. David Dao and Richard Lee played a large role in the team's offensive output during the season. David and Richard were also a defensive presence at the net. The future of the boy's volleyball program looks bright due to the contributions that came from this year's talented junior class. Starting setter Prasert Wiwatyukan, middle hitters, Matt Eng and David Law; and defense and passing specialist Sam Lam, played an important role in the team's overall success. Lastly, the team had a strong supporting cast in seniors Will Seton, Simon Gee, Kurt Nason, Chris Lantin, and the ever improving senior Bobby Wong.

Senior Colby Morrissey and junior Vicky Chiu, the team alternates, proved as valuable assets to the team and the season. Good luck to the varsity team of next year!

Led by the teams' four returning senior captains Dan Coughlin, TK Kelly, Peter Monaco, and Paul Vu the Red Raider boys' tennis had an outstanding 2003 season. ## North Quincy graduates told: 'You have the answers within'; Class president skips inspirational messages, saying 'We had fun'.

By KAREN ESCHBACHER

The Patriot Ledger

Life can be a bit like the "Wizard of Oz."

Quincy School Committee Vice Chairwoman Christine Cedrone told North Quincy High School graduates yesterday that they can learn a lot from Dorothy's journey along the yellow brick road. Dorothy battles the Wicked Witch of the West and all sorts of other problems as she tries to reach the great and powerful Oz, all in a quest to get home to Auntie Em and Kansas. But when she finally reaches the wizard, she is faced with a startling revelation. "She learns that she is her own destiny," Cedrone said. "She learns that she had the ability to get home and had it all along. "You have the answers within," she told the graduates. "You have the power to make difficult decisions. Make them ... No matter how hard they may be or whatever you encounter in your lives, believe in yourself and go for it." Some 336 students capped off their high school careers yesterday during a sun-drenched graduation ceremony at Veterans' Memorial Stadium. North Quincy High School Principal, Louis Ioanilli, said the class excelled on every level, including the calculus team finishing second in a New England competition, the girls volleyball team adding another state championship banner to the gymnasium wall, and students participating in more than 80 community service projects. On a reserved for brimming with future, Dominic his fellow he wouldn't of inspirational words. Instead, class president the fun. He about Friday games at Vet- - "It was like a ground" - and all dolled up for prom. He going to volleyball games where so loud and ob-cheering the they had to stop tell us to calm had fun," "That could be motto of the 2003." Marilyn day typically lofty speeches advice for the Delgado told graduates that fer any stories or the senior reflected on reminisced night football erans Stadium meeting about getting the junior talked about ball playoff "we would get noxious girls on that the game and down." "We Delgado said the unspoken class of Power was chosen as class speaker, 69 years after her grandmother, Lillian Power, was a member of the school's first graduating class. As Power prepared her speech, her grandmother shared bits and pieces of what she remembered about her graduation. What struck her grandmother most, Power said, were words delivered by Margaret Slattery, who was then an English teacher at North Quincy. Power was so touched, she chose to share them with her classmates. "It is always a thrilling experience to stand at the edge of a pier and watch a boat put out to sea," Power read. "It is especially interesting when aboard the liner are those whom you know and for whom you are wishing a wonderful voyage. That is what I feel I am doing these days when so many boats are leaving old piers to adventure upon a voyage on the sea of life."

Editors' Page

After many late nights in room 136, period 9 studies, adventures with the digital camera, picture sorting parties, deadline crisis, and multiple workshops...it's COMPLETE! The yearbook was loads of work but we hope that you enjoy it.

The yearbook wouldn't have been possible without the help of our advisors. Mr. Berton's computer skills, Mrs. Golden's organization, and Mrs. Walker's proofreading assistance made this book a great success.

We would also like to thank all the managers who helped with the yearbook, especially Jaclyn Murphy, Kate Marshall, and Ali Ciccariello for their hardwork and amazing creativity with the superlative photographs. We would like to give Merry Acton a special thank-you for her many digital photo contributions.

Kara, Rita and Liz, thank you for your help and Best of Luck with next year's book.

Hope You Enjoy!
